

Applicant maintains that the election of a specific gene is not appropriate since the invention of the present application is not directed to specific genes. Rather, the invention relates to a method of identifying specific genes of a cell in response to exposure to FSH or an FSH mimetic. However, in an effort to facilitate prosecution, Applicant provisionally elects the "carbonic anhydrase 6" gene from Table 3, with traverse.

Date: October 4, 2002

Tel: 781-681-2796

Fax: 781-681-2946

Respectively submitted,

Gregory B. Butler

Reg. No. 34,558

Serono Reproductive Biology
Institute
One Technology Place
Rockland, MA 02370